

2019 ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING & BANK SECRECY ACT

TWO-DAY COMPLIANCE SCHOOL

"I know from my time in the private sector that the compliance community parses every single word that comes out of a government agency, especially as part of an enforcement action. That is a good thing. It means that compliance professionals care about getting it right. The responsibility to protect the financial system falls upon all of us. That is why compliance with BSA and sanctions is so essential. Financial institutions that fail to comply with their BSA or sanctions requirements can expose the financial system to abuse by illicit actors".

Sigal P. Mandelker
Under Secretary for Terrorism and Financial Intelligence
United States Department of the Treasury
December 3, 2018

A two-day program designed to encompass the broad range of topics included in the realm of the Bank Secrecy Act and Anti-Money Laundering.

- Designing and Implementing a BSA Program
- Establishing the appropriate Culture of Compliance
- Implementing the Beneficial Ownership Requirements
- Completing the Currency Transaction Report (FinCEN Form 112)
- Exempting Eligible Clients from CTR Filing
- Overview of Regulatory and Statutory Components of BSA
- Customer/Member Identification Programs
- Establishing a Risk-Based Program of Identifying and Classifying Your Clients
- Suspicious Activity Reporting – the updated Form (FinCEN Form 111) and the SAR Process
- How OFAC Fits into the Process

Recent Congressional focus and well-publicized BSA enforcement actions and fines continue to support a climate proving BSA compliance remains of paramount importance to all financial institutions. Treasury continues to rely on financial institutions to serve as the "front-line gatekeepers" for law enforcement efforts to safeguard the U.S. financial system from the abuses of financial crimes, including money laundering and terrorist financing. The federal regulatory agencies continue to rely on financial institutions to take "every reasonable step" to identify, minimize, and manage any risks that illicit financial activity may pose to the individual institution and the industry. Ongoing initiatives by the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN), and continued expansions of the federal examination procedures, reinforce the need to have a strong BSA program at your institution.

This two-day school covers in detail the issues and opportunities in the ever-expanding environment of the Bank Secrecy Act and reviews the entire realm of BSA from "A" to "Z". From decades old Currency Transaction Reporting (CTR) and various recordkeeping requirements, to institutional risk assessment, Customer/Member Due Diligence (CDD), beneficial ownership expectations, and suspicious activity reporting, students from the novice appointee to the tenured BSA professional will find the discussions and interactions to be of great value.
